

INTRODUCING: THE CCDM COUNCIL

Thank you to everyone who participated in the recent discovery phase of the Care Capacity Demand Management (CCDM) programme.

We had a total of 1,308 responses from staff across the DHB – 48 percent of these were from clinical staff. A summary of the results will be provided in next month's newsletter.

A CCDM council has been set up. They are tasked with reviewing the discovery phase responses and coming up with a plan on how we will move forward with the programme.

The council is made up of members from across our DHB and unions. Completing the discovery phase and setting up the council is our first milestone in the CCDM programme.

THE CCDM COUNCIL MEMBERS ARE:

Chris Lowry, general manager of hospital and health services

Delwyn Hunter, executive director operations - surgery, women and children's directorate

Carey Virtue, executive director operations - medicine, cancer and community directorate

Donna Hickey, general manager of people and capability

Andrea McCance, executive director of nursing and midwifery

Toni Dal Din, director of nursing MHAIDS

Carolyn Coles, associate director of midwifery

Lisa MacDonald, elected charge nurse manager representative

Jannel Fisher, communications manager

Steven Stewart, Integrated operations centre (IOC) manager

Emma Williams, CCDM coordinator

Georgia Choveaux, NZNO organiser

Suzanne Rolls, NZNO professional nursing adviser

Annie McCabe, NZNO lead delegate

Chris Stuart, PSA organiser

Gabby Cripps, MERAS representative

Stuart Port, safe staffing healthy workplaces programme consultant.

The CCDM programme is about better matching staff resources to patient demand so we can improve patient care, make the best use of resources and provide a better work environment for our staff at the front line.
