

Code of conduct
Type: Policy	HDSS Certification Standard 1.2.7
Issued by: Wairarapa DHB; Hutt DHB; Capital and Coast DHB	Version: 1
Applicable to: Organisation wide	Contact person: Human Resources Manager
Lead DHB: CCDHB

Purpose

This Code of Conduct (the Code) describes the DHBs' expectations about conduct. Employees and others working for the DHBs are in a position of trust. Employees and the DHBs have rights and responsibilities. One of the DHBs' responsibilities as good employers is to inform employees about what is expected and to ensure employees are treated fairly and with courtesy and respect. Employees are responsible for reading and understanding the Code, and meeting the standards of conduct it describes.

A copy of the Code will be made available to all employees. New employees will receive a copy of the Code with their offer of employment and will be asked to confirm they have read and understood it.

Scope

This Code applies to:

- the Wairarapa, Hutt Valley and Capital and Coast DHBs (individually a DHB, together, the DHBs);
- all employees of the DHBs; and
- those volunteers, contractors, individuals covered by special staff status, and others where a DHB has advised them this Code will apply.

For ease of reference, this Code refers only to employees but applies equally to the other people referred to.

Roles and responsibilities

Managers are expected to:

- Provide leadership and model the expected standards of conduct.
- Be aware of, identify and take appropriate steps to deal with conduct issues in the workplace.

- Challenge inappropriate behaviour and make it clear the DHB will not tolerate behaviour that is not in line with this Code or expected standards of conduct.

All DHB employees are expected to:

- Adhere to the expected standards of conduct.
- Take responsibility and accountability for their behaviour and actions.

Policy content

Good faith

Employers, employees and unions or employee representatives must at all times deal with each other in 'good faith'. Good faith obligations are mutual and mean that the parties must (among other things):

- engage openly, honestly and respectfully;
- be responsive and communicative;
- be active and constructive in maintaining a productive employment relationship; and
- be committed to patient safety and developing, maintaining and providing high quality public health services.

State Sector Standards of Integrity and Conduct

The DHBs and those working for them are required to act with a spirit of service to the community and meet high standards of integrity and conduct as set out in the State Sector Standards of Integrity and Conduct (a code of conduct issued by the State Services Commissioner under the State Sector Act 1988). The code of conduct issued by the State Services Commissioner requires DHBs and employees to abide by the following standards.

Fairness

- treat everyone fairly and with respect
- be professional and responsive
- work to make government services accessible and effective
- strive to make a difference to the well-being of New Zealand and all its people

Impartiality

- maintain neutrality as required to enable us to work with current and future governments
- carry out the functions of our organisation, unaffected by our personal beliefs

Code of conduct

- support our organisation to provide robust and unbiased advice
- respect the authority of the government of the day

Responsibility

- act lawfully and objectively
- use our organisation's resources carefully and only for intended purposes
- treat information with care and use it only for proper purposes
- work to improve the performance and efficiency of our organisation

Trustworthiness

- be honest
- work to the best of our abilities
- ensure our actions are not affected by our personal interest or relationships
- never misuse our position for personal gain
- decline gifts or benefits that place us under any obligation or perceived influence
- avoid any activities, work or non-work, that may harm the reputation of our organisation or of the State Services

What is expected from you?

The DHBs expect employees to act honestly, conscientiously, reasonably and in good faith at all times, and to have regard to the interests of the DHBs, their colleagues, the DHBs' patients and the wider community.

In line with this, employees are expected to:

- Be present at work as required unless there is an agreed reason for absence or an unexpected situation has arisen that prevents them from attending work.
- Carry out their duties in an efficient and competent manner and maintain satisfactory standards of performance.
- Comply with lawful and reasonable instructions and all DHB policies, procedures, and standards.
- Neither use, nor allow the use of DHB property, resources or funds for other than authorised purposes.
- Maintain all qualifications (including registration and annual practising certificates) necessary for the performance of their duties.

CONTROLLED DOCUMENT – The electronic version is the most up to date version. The DHB accepts no responsibility for the consequences that may arise from using out of date printed copies of this document.

- Declare any potential conflicts of interest that their activities or relationships outside of the DHBs may have with the business or activities of the DHBs.
- Ensure that they do not bring the DHBs into disrepute through their conduct and actions either as employees or private individuals.
- Conduct themselves professionally at all times, respect the rights, interests and diversity of their colleagues, and work harmoniously and courteously with others.

Honesty and Integrity

- Take responsibility for their own actions and decisions, and appropriately raise any incidents of unethical or unprofessional workplace behaviour.
- Avoid any activities, either work or non work related, that may in any way bring the DHBs into disrepute.
- Advise their manager immediately if they are charged or being investigated either criminally or professionally.

Loyalty, Good Faith and Professionalism

- Abide by the provisions of all New Zealand legislation (and the DHB's policies and procedures).
- Abide by the code of ethics and conduct of their profession (if applicable).
- Avoid conduct which may or does impair work performance, including the use of alcohol and other drugs or substances.
- Conduct all employment related communications in good faith, in an open, truthful and respectful manner.
- Be professional when posting any information online, either personal or work related, and take responsibility for what they write.
- Respect people and property.
- Be fair in carrying out their duties, irrespective of their personal beliefs and values.
- Avoid any behaviour within the workplace that may cause unreasonable distress to colleagues or patients and their families.
- Take care to prevent inappropriate use, loss or damage to property and have regard for the safety of others in the use of DHB property.

Confidentiality

- Not access or use confidential, personal, or sensitive information for personal purposes or advantage, or divulge such information to another person outside official duties, unless required by law.

- Take appropriate care while handling patient and employee information.

What can you expect from the DHBs?

Employees can expect the DHBs to:

- Comply with all relevant legislative and contractual requirements, including employment agreements, and the policies and procedures.
- Act honestly, conscientiously, reasonably and in good faith.
- Ensure that bullying, harassment, discrimination and victimisation are not tolerated within the working environment.
- Provide an environment conducive to the development and effectiveness of all employees.
- Recognise the need to balance work with personal interests and commitments.
- Supply the resources necessary to fulfil work obligations.
- Provide a safe and healthy workplace.
- Offer opportunities for the enhancement of the abilities of individual employees.

Rules of Conduct

- All employees are expected to be aware of the standards of performance and conduct expected of them. They are also expected to perform well, conduct themselves professionally and overcome minor problems without the need for formal intervention.
- This Code of Conduct provides examples of conduct the DHBs consider are not acceptable and could give rise to disciplinary action. Please refer to the Disciplinary Policy for further information. The examples provided in this Code are not exhaustive.
- The DHBs will consider any relevant policy or procedure in determining whether there has been a breach of this Code.

Misconduct

- Misconduct is unacceptable conduct that does not meet the DHBs' expectations as set out in this Code or elsewhere, such as in another relevant policy or procedure. Generally speaking, misconduct will justify disciplinary action.
- Examples of misconduct are listed below, although this list is not exhaustive. Depending on the seriousness of the particular conduct, it could be considered serious misconduct.

Serious Misconduct

- Serious misconduct is unacceptable conduct that seriously breaches the DHBs' expectations as set out in this Code or elsewhere, such as in another relevant policy or procedure. Generally speaking, serious misconduct will justify dismissal because the conduct undermines the trust and confidence the DHB has in the employee and calls into question whether the employment relationship can continue. Examples of serious misconduct are listed below, although this list is not exhaustive. Serious misconduct may result in summary dismissal (i.e. dismissal without notice).

Serious misconduct includes situations where an employee:

- Knowingly falsifies a document or record or makes a false declaration or statement, (including making an incorrect record of attendance, giving a false explanation of absence or failing to notify a police charge and/or conviction).
- Admits, or is convicted of any offence which brings the employee's suitability for continued employment into question.
- Sends highly inappropriate or offensive communications (including emails, texts, and attachments), or uses the internet, or social media sites or DHB computer systems in serious breach of DHB policies.
- Wilfully or recklessly damages any DHB property.
- Is physically or verbally violent towards any person on DHB premises or on DHB business.
- Behaves in a manner that constitutes bullying, sexual, racial or other harassment, discrimination, victimisation or constitutes unwelcome behaviour towards DHB patients, visitors or employees.
- Reports for work under the influence of alcohol or drugs such that they are unable to perform their required duties in a safe and proper manner.
- Reports to work under the influence of drugs or alcohol.
- Uses or is in unauthorised possession of restricted or illegal drugs on DHB premises or while working
- Commits a serious breach of their professional code of conduct or ethics.
- Seriously breaches The Code of Health and Disability Services Consumers' Rights.
- Practices without a current practising certificate or other certificate required by law or a responsible authority.
- Fails to notify their manager of any conditions or constraints imposed on their professional practice by a responsible authority.

- Breaches patient privacy.
- Intentionally fails to declare a conflict of interest.
- Behaves in a manner which brings the DHB into disrepute.
- Misuses or discloses personal or confidential information, or accesses personal or confidential information without authorisation or for personal reasons.
- Blatantly disregards hygiene, health or safety.
- Signs any document or makes any statement on behalf of the DHB without authorisation.
- Misrepresents or withholds criminal charges or convictions or employment history, qualifications or other information pertinent to the DHB's decision to hire or promote the employee.
- Seeks or accepts any personal gift, fee, reward, gratuity or subsidy outside of the policy to declare such gifts, fees, rewards, gratuities or subsidies.
- Gross or deliberate failure to perform work to the required standards.
- Any misconduct of sufficient seriousness in the circumstances to be considered serious misconduct.

Disciplinary outcomes

- Examples of disciplinary outcomes that may result for breaches of the Code include (but are not limited to) issuing a warning, dismissal (summary or on notice) and demotion. Please refer to the Disciplinary Policy.
- A copy of this Code will be made available to all employees. All new employees will receive a copy of this policy with their offer of employment and will be asked to confirm they have read and understood the policy and agree to comply with it.
